

Hello,

My comment to you is this. How would you like a phone call at say three in the morning? How about an hour or two after you get to sleep? You wouldn't right! I work three shifts and some times only get three to four hours of sleep in between shifts. I don't buy anything over the phone. I mean never! I never will either and I don't want to be bothered at home. When I want something I go shopping for it. I work in a place that employs 450 others that feel exactly as I do that work the same hours. If this no call list doesn't stay the same I will no longer have a phone and I'm sure that I'm not the only one who feels this way.
